

It is hard to teach reading fundamentals remotely. It is hard to differentiate remotely. But Amplify Reading can really help.
-Larry Berger, CEO of Amplify

Amplify Reading Fun Pack: Our team has gathered a few things to help everyone get excited about Amplify Reading!

For your school:

AR face masks for every teacher.

For your classroom:

Mute/Unmute Cards

In Amplify Reading, a Curioso is your reading buddy in Bookerton. Our Curioso mute/unmute cards can be your buddy to hold up during your Zooms.

Goal Setting Board

Set goals for your class. If there is a percentage of students that are not on Amplify Reading, make it a team effort! Post the board behind you on a wall, and set a weekly goal as a class. You can also add up the total number of minutes that your students are on Amplify Reading, and challenge them to increase the class total.

Leader Board

Celebrate and recognize your top Amplify Reading students. The more students are on Amplify Reading the stronger they become as readers.

Dry Erase Board

Get your students attention by using the Amplify Reading dry erase board with the whole class or with your small groups. Use it to practice the sounds of letters, blend a word, read sentences, or to give them a visual support.

Postcards

If Amplify Reading is not reaching some of your students, send them a postcard and give their family your support. If you want to recognize and show your students that you've noticed their hard work, send them a special note.

Stickers

Voters wore their I VOTED stickers with pride. Students can be proud they are an Amplify Reading reader.

For your students:

Magnetic Reading Log

Most students are familiar with a reading log. This is their Amplify Reading log. Students can use this to check off at least 2-3 times a week and record the number of minutes on Amplify Reading. Parents can take a picture of the magnet and submit to the teacher at the end of the week, wipe and start fresh the next week.
