MR. PRESIDENT

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4,
The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bonds which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.— That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Liberty.

That the history of the present United States is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct or indirect consequence the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. — That the King has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public Good. — That he has called together legislative Bodies at places, times, and manners wholly unconstituted, and has refused to assent to their Acts, except on such Conditions as he has thought proper to impose. — That he has dissolved the Representative Bodies when they opposed to his will. — That he has refused to assent to Acts of the most important nature, and has endeavored to obstruct the Administration of Justice by neglecting to appoint Judges and Officers of the Law. — That he has endeavored to excite the jealousies of the Colonies, and to draw them into quarrels with one another, and with the Mother Country. — That he has endeavored to excite the Colonies to quarrels with one another, and with the Mother Country. — That he has endeavored to excite the Colonies to quarrels with one another, and with the Mother Country.
